INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON MENTAL HEALTH CARE “Mental Health: Global challenges of XXI century”

The problem of mental health care (MHC) in the contemporary world becomes global with many negative consequences. Thus, according to the World Health Organization, mental and behavioral disorders are extremely common and affect up to 25% of all people in different periods of their lives. The WHO notes that in the future, given the aging population and worsening social problems, the number of cases will increase considerably.

Each country in the world faces significant hindrances in both socio-psychological and economic aspects of the MHC system. No country has yet completely solved this problem. This creates an urgent need in joint efforts towards searching for solutions of common problems.

Main objectives:

- to attract attention of world researchers to the problems of MHC in developing countries and to the global MHC problems
- to investigate perspectives and solutions of specific issues of MHC in multidisciplinary and multicultural aspects. To facilitate pooling researches to effectively solve global MHC problems
- to provide the platform for exchanging of ideas, building of academic networks, developing of future collaborations between researchers across the different regions of the world.

We seek to answer various questions including (but not limited to) the following:

- MHC systems in the context of global social challenges

- Mental health and migration: What challenges migration creates for mental health specialist? What migration policy makers must know about mental health? Why mental health matters in problems of migration?
- Mental health in times of military conflicts: Why should we care about mental health of those who have experienced a military conflict? What is the practice of treating post-war psychological traumatism?
- Mental health at work place: Why is the corporate culture important for psychological health of employees? Burn-out problem: a new trend or an old but well-masked problem? What are challenges and opportunities of a multicultural environment?
- Specific issues of MHC: child neuropsychiatry support of disabled people, elderly age people; MHC in rural areas
- Higher Education and MHC: Research and Innovations
- Interdisciplinary approach in MHC

Fields covered:
